June 23-July 6 | Photography exhibition | Bahrain Arts Centre

Passion meets ambition in this realistic take on India. Check out Al Khan's latest exhibition.

At the age of 77, nothing can stop this avid photographer from achieving his dream Al Khan showcases a glimpse of India in his display of 'Kerala: God's Own Country'.

Painting a picturesque view of the state, which is located in South-West India presents this collection after his latest travel to the region. Kerala is one of the places in India that showcases the rich nature of the region.

"The beauty of the landscapes and the people within the imageries show the colourful reality of the place," says Abdulla.

His association with photography started in the early '50s, when he used to assist who practised the art in his one-bedroom house. With 60 years of experimenting with lighting techniques, compositions and colours, his passion keeps achieving new heights eventually launched his own photography services in the '70s and has captured the lives of paupers and princes.

With years of experience backing him and many photographic adventures to share, he has published four books of his photographic collections till date: on Muharraq, the oil industry, democracy and a biography of his own life. Commenting on the future, he hopes that he can achieve his target of publishing a total of 10 books in the years to come. Abdulla's exhibition is open to the public free of charge and runs until July 6.
